Pom Pom began in 2015 in Thornbury as a little summer side project for two local women. Rheanna Kish is a chef, recipe developer, cookbook author and spent ten years as Canadian Living Magazine's senior food editor. Andrea Greyerbiehl owned and operated one of Collingwood's favourite restaurants, Azzurra.

In the beginning they had a small team scooping ice cream for everyone in summer months and produced their own plant-based ice cream. The demand for this product grew beyond their hometown during the pandemic and so they began to retail their plant-based ice cream to markets and scoop shops within Ontario. In 2022 the need for a larger production facility prompted the opening of a second, larger location in Meaford. This shop provides space for the plant-based ice cream and baked goods to be made in house and is open year round for espresso, ice cream, cakes and so much more!
